1. Give great emphasis to the petroleum problem.
2. Continue their struggle in the syndicates and factories in order to create an early showdown with the present government of treason and imperialism.
3. Continue with the struggle of organizing the poor farm elements against the dairy proprietors and other exploiters in order to obtain a division of the land throughout the entire country.
4. Take the opportunity to infiltrate into the Comites do Petroleo that have been formed and are being formed. Once penetrated, these organizations can be used as a cover for "democratic action."
5. Organize meetings in factories and among other worker elements for the purpose of making clear the Communist stand on the petroleum question.
6. Support the candidacy of Horta Barbosa for Presidency in 1951.
7. Involve in the struggle for petroleum all outstanding democratic, anti-fascist, and anti-imperialist elements, with particular emphasis on officers and sergeants of the armed forces.
8. React with force against police intervention.
9. Always maintain contact with the Communist forces in Uruguay, Argentina, etc., in order to unmask the war-making element in Argentina so that that latter country will be involved in a civil war.
